Laundry procedures That Will Make Washday Easier

Efficient laundering methods are the key to washday success. Satisfactory results are achieved with a knowledge of how to handle today's fabrics, appliances and laundry products.

Sort laundry into loads that will wash well together with the same water temperature, agitation and spin speeds. Separate by color - whites, colorfast items and those that are not colorfast. White permanent press and synthetic fabrics are most prone to picking up color and should be washed alone just like dark or very bright colors.

It is also important to sort by type of fabric - cottons and linens, washable woolds, delicates, permanent press and man-made items. Construction is another consideration. For example, delicates - lacy lingerie, synthetic knits should be separated from regular washloads. Also, lint givers, such as chenille robes and bath towels, should be washed apart from lint attractors: corduroy, permanent press and man-made garments.

Another factor is the degree of soil - heavy, normal or light. For example, separate heavily-soiled work clothes from lightly-soiled lingerie. Heavy, bulky things like blankets, bedspreads or slipcovers should be washed alone.

Prepare clothes for washing by checking pockets, brushing lint and dirt from pant cuffs, closing zippers and hoods. Take off pins, ornaments, heavy buckles and any unwashable trimmings. Check for spots, stains or heavy soil.

There are various methods and products that can be employed in pretreating clothes. In all instances, package instructions should be read and followed carefully. The information provided will tell what the product will be and how to use it. A stain removal chart also offers directions on how to treat specific stains and the types of removal agents to apply.

Soil lines around collars and cuffs and small stained areas can be pretreated by dampening the area and rubbing with a paste made of detergent granules and water, a liquid detergents or bar soap.

An enzyme pre-soak product has the ability to loosen soil, break it up and make it easier to remove during the wash cycle. These products are especially effective for stains caused by body soils, blood, eggs, baby formula, grass and chocolate. Use warm water. And again, separate whites from colors before soaking. The time needed with enzyme pre-soak products varies from 15 minutes to overnight, depending on the age and amount of stain.

Another method of treating stains is to use a pre-wash soil and stain remover. Available mainly in aerosol form, it is particularly effective on permanent press and man-made fabrics. These products help remove stains such as blood, coffee, deodrant, grass, lipstick; they also loosen greasy and heavy soils.

Bleach helps to remove stain. Chlorine bleach, available in liquid and dry form, can be used to soak diapers, white and colorfast colors, linens, synthetics and permanent press garments. Oxygen bleach, in dry form, is safe for all washable fabrics and most colors.

Bleach substitutes may be used for presoaking to help loosen stains and eliminate odors. They are safe for all washable colors and fabrics.

Some washers include a pre-wash cycle, whereby pretreating with detergent is done automatically with agitation to help loosen and remove heavy soil from work or play clothes and diapers. The water temperature to select will vary - generally hot water for oily soil and warm or cold water for potein stains, such as blood, milk or grass. Temperature selection will also depend on the type of fabric.

This method can be used with machines that do not have a special pre-wash cycle. Fill the tub with water and advance the timer to the deep rinse. Let washer complete the cycle. Then reset and launder as usual with additional detergent.

Detergent or soap must be used in the wash cycle to clean clothes. Its primary purpose is to loosen and remove soil from fabrics and to hold the soil in suspension in the wash water until it is drained away.

Detergents and soaps vary. Some are all-purpose products for all washable fabrics. Others are light duty for delicate, lightly-soiled fabrics and hand washing. Detergents are also classified according to sudsing characteristics. They may be normal, intermediate, or low sudsers, each providing a different level of suds.

Product selection depends on a number of factors - water conditions, kind of washer, fabrics, degree of soil and personal preference.

There are instances when an increased amount of detergent is necessary; for hard water, larger loads, heavily-soiled clothes and high water volume. Conversely, less the suggested amount may give satisfactory results on lightly-soiled items. If, however, the lightly-soiled items are delicate - lingerie and knits - and must be protected by reducing the water temperature and washing action, it would be advisable to compensate for reduced cleaning factors by using the recommended amount of product.

Laundry aids such as water conditioner, disinfectant, fabric softener and starch are used for other laundering benefits. Again, package directions will explain how and when to use the product.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Moravian Sugar Cake
(Or Coffeecake)

½ pound potatoes
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup water warm
¾ cup butter and lard or shortening, mixed
1 scant cup sugar (about 1 tablespoon less)
2 eggs
1 cup potato water, warm
2 teaspoons butter, cut up
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ cup light cream

Cook potatoes in water to cover until tender; drain, reserving 1 cup of the water. Mash potatoes and measure out 1 cup to use in recipe. Add yeast to the ¼ cup warm water and let stand 5 minutes. Cream the ¾ cup butter mixture and sugar together well; beat in eggs one at a time. Mix in mashed potatoes, potato water, salt and yeast. Gradually add flour, mixing in enough to make a soft, sticky dough. Cover bowl with a damp towel and let rise in a warm place (85°F) until double in bulk (about 2 to 3 hours). Punch down and pat into 2 well-greased 13 x 9 x 2 inch pans. Cover with a damp towel and let rise again until double in bulk, about 1½ hours. Heat oven to 400°F. With a sharp knife punch small holes in top of dough and insert bits of butter. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon. Dribble cream over top. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until brown. Glaze reheats very satisfactorily. Makes 2 coffee cakes.
